DEDICATION

---

There are a few men whom we meet in the round of our college life who call forth the best thoughts in us, and inspire us to a wholesome point of view by their exemplary lives. Such a man, and friend, we have found in

ARTHUR HEATH WOODWORTH

“Woody,” as we know him best, is dear to the hearts of Hanover men and women because of his warm-hearted cordiality, his sympathetic friendliness, and his never failing sincerity. We dedicate this book to him.

FOREWORD

With an earnest hope that sometime in the years to come this book may recall to the mind of a "silver gray" a happy thought of the college year 1925-1926, and with the belief that in the views and photographs reproduced some of Hanover's fine atmosphere may be captured and preserved, the Revonah Staff of '26 presents this book to the student body, the faculty, and the alumni of the college. May it bring them happiness and pleasure!

When you come to a crisis, and the signs are confused, and you find it difficult to choose your way, you have found, if you have searched, that in you have a kind-hearted, far sighted counsellor and friend.

Hanover College owes a great deal to the prudent judgment of this man, who, through almost twenty years, has builded upon the foundation of college history and produced an institution where higher education is progressing with precise adjustment of values.

ORVILLE A. HALL

Director of Athletics and Physical Training
Dean of Men
B. S., Earlham College, 1923

"Coach Orv" has the confidence of his men, and of the student body. May he continue to build athletics at Hanover for many years to come.

CHARLES R. GLAZER

Department of Music
Graduate of Cincinnati College of Music

The man who leads us when we sing in chapel, and who played so wonderfully between the acts of "Her Husband's Wife" in Madison.

GERALD E. MOORE II K Δ

Department of Mathematics
B. S., Hedding College, 1922
M. S., University of Illinois, 1923

We have only to notice the growth of the Math Department during the three years he has been here to realize the quality of his teaching.

Departments of Astronomy, Geology, and Physies

A. B., Hanover College, 1888

A. M., Hanover College, 1891

D. Sc., Wooster College, 1921

A strong teacher and loyal Hanover booster, who interprets the heavens, reads history in the rocks, and understnads the laws of energy—surely, a powerful man is he!

J. W. LAGRANGE ΦΔΘ

Financial Secretary

A. B., Hanover College, 1885

All of us know him as the man who takes our fees, and many of us know him as a jovial booster for the cause of anything which helps Hanover. He may well be commended for the recent improvements in Hanover's equipment.

A. HARVEY YOUNG ΦΓΔ

Departments of Biology and Chemistry.

A. B., Hanover, 1871

A. M., Hanover, 1874

Ph. D., Washington and Jefferson College

Of all the profs, in all the world, we love our "Banty" best. With tightened throats and full hearts we learn that he is retiring after forty-seven years of faithful service. Inspired by his example, we who know him can only resolve to carry forward our share of his legacy to us.

VELMA LEWIS MOORE    Π K Δ

Department of Education
A. B., Monmouth College, 1923

Her associations as a faculty member are all with normal training classes, but as an enthusiastic co-worker in campus life she is known to all of us.

JOHN D. GABLE

Department of Education
Principal of the Hanover High School
A. B., Hanover, 1901
M. A., Indiana University

Mr. Gable has many friends among the practice teachers, for he's their sympathetic supervisor.

MRS. HARRIET HARDING MILLIS    K K Γ

Ph. B., DePauw University
M. A., University of Chicago

An open hearted cordial welcome awaits any student who braves the terrors of a call at Prexy's, and he goes away better off for having come in contact with Mrs. Millis.

MABEL CODDINGTON

Dean of Women
Head of the English Department
Student Cincinnati College of Music
Graduate Northwestern University School of Speech

A "story teller" who tries to make us tell stories too. And we do, generally. Miss Coddington has helped the Dramatic Club and the Seniors through her enthusiastic work.

FRANK O. BALLARD BΘΠ

Department of English Bible
A. M., Wooster College, 1874
University of New York, 1876

A charming, gentle philosopher and humorist, who has been accused of considerable experimentation with the speeding mechanism of his Buick. Be that as it may, we are indebted to Dr. Ballard for showing us an example of what a good life is.

LEONARD L. HUBER ΦΔΘ

Registrar
Department of Biology and Chemistry
A. B., Hanover College, 1915
Studied at Michigan University

A quiet and unassuming exterior covering a strong scholarship and keen judgment. We like him, but we wish he wouldn't assign Mendelian charts.

ESTHER M. POWER A X Ω

Department of English
A. B., Colby College, 1920
A. M., Columbia University, 1922

We miss her from the campus, but we're glad she had her opportunity for foreign study. Last we heard she'd bobbed her hair and was riding a bicycle at Oxford.

MARY CHEEVER II A Θ

Department of Modern Language
A. B., Indiana University, 1924

During her year with us she has been a splendid addition to the social and scholastic life of the college, so we hope one fire at the annex won't scare her away.

JEAN J. ANDERSON

Department of Modern Language
A. B., Indiana University
M. A., Indiana University, 1925

When she returns from her year in France and Spain the freshmen will discover they have missed a whole year of contact with a sweet personality and splendid instructor.

LESTER H. MUNZENMAYER

Department of Education

A. B., Hanover College, 1923

He taught here only one summer term, but most of the older students will remember him as the lesser half of that prize winning Munzenmayer family, of the Class of '25.

MRS. J. W. LAGRANGE

Matron, Women's Dormitory

Student, Franklin College

The trials of six years of dormitory life have served only to add charm and youthful spirit to this woman, whose unceasing care of the vaccinated makes us appreciate her worth more and more.

E. O. MUNCIE

Department of Education

Superintendent of Schools, Madison, Indiana

One summer term on the Hanover faculty has added Mr. Muncie to our list of friends.

WALTER C. GOLD   Φ Γ Δ

It is said that he knows all the languages there are to know.

He is a professor, but we have the feeling that he is more than that—he is a fellow-student, also. His interests are ours, and his efforts have been devoted in service to the Hanover campus. We owe a great deal to “Fitz.”

CHARLES BEER  $\Phi \Delta \Theta$

Versailles, Indiana

Football 1, 2, 3, 4; Basketball 1, 2, 3, 4; Baseball 1, 2, 3; Orchestra 1, 2; Interfraternity Tennis 1, 2, 3; Band 2; Revonah Staff 3; Glee Club 3; Interfraternity Council 4.

Charley said last summer that the reasons he wanted college to start were: dates and football. And, you know, we almost believe he meant it.

LURA BRIGGS

Vevay, Indiana

Y. W. C. A. 1, 2, 3; W. A. A. 1, 2, 3; Press Club 2, 3; Girl Reserve 2; Mathematics Club 2.

All the august faculty have nothing on Lura when it comes to having initials tacked after their names—as will be noted above. And anyone seeing her on a basketball floor will believe that the “W. A. A.” is amply deserved.

DORIS BUNGER  $I \Phi$

Patriot, Indiana

Y. W. C. A. 1, 2, 3, 4; Classical Club 1, 2, 3, 4; Girls' Basketball 1, 2, 3, 4; Mathematics Club 1, 2, 3, 4.

Doris' placid chapel smile is just about her most characteristic thing. We've wondered though—now maybe it's all imagination—if it didn't get a wee bit more meaningful along about the time of Theta Nu homecoming.

VERNA CHRISTY

Dupont, Indiana

Y. W. C. A. 1, 2, 3, 4.

Verna is the third able representative of the tribe of Christy. Hailing from the little two-by-four town “up the line,” she presents a hauteur that would do credit to Deauville itself. But she doesn't mean it, really.

JEAN CULBERTSON A Δ Π

Hanover, Indiana

Classical Club 1, 2, 3, 4; W. A. A. 1, 2, 3, 4; Y. W. C. A. Cabinet 1, 2; President Y. W. C. A. 4; Girl Reserve 2; Friendship Team 2; Chairman May Day 3; Vice President Senior Class; Student Fellowship 4.

We can't think of much along Y. W. lines that Jean hasn't been, except possibly janitress. But "there's a reason"—the Y. M. does that.

DOROTHY DULEY

Corydon, Indiana

Y. W. C. A. 1, 2, 3, 4; Girls' Basketball 1, 2, 3, 4; Classical Club 1, 2, 3, 4; Mathematics Club 3.

When it comes to plotting higher curves either in math or basketball, Dorothy is all to the good. We don't know whether they are catenaries or hyperbolas, but lots of them count two points anyway. P. S. Now suppose she plays guard; what'll we do about this write-up?

ESTOL ELLERMAN Σ A X

Versailles, Indiana

Summer School 1, 2; Classical Club 3, 4; Y. M. C. A. 3, 4.

"How many baskets are you going to make this game?" "Well, it all depends on how I get started." Irish did reach a glorious zenith in the interclass games, though.

HULDAH FERREE A Δ Π

Logansport, Indiana

Y. W. C. A. 1, 2, 3, 4; Freshman-Sophomore Oratorical Contest 1, 2; Secretary-Treasurer Freshman Class; Chairman May Day Decorating 1, 2, 3; Inter-Collegiate Debate 2; Editor-in-Chief Revonah 3; Treasurer Senior Class; Senior Class Poet; Editor-in-Chief Triangle 4; Pan Hellenic Council 3, 4.

Huldah has been doing too much to leave much space for comment, so we'll stop with wishing she could get over an addiction to lemon confetti.

WELBY FARRELL  $\Phi \Gamma \Delta$

Hanover, Indiana

Y. M. C. A. 1, 2; Basketball 1, 2; Inter-Fraternity Basketball 1, 2, 3, 4; Bird Club 1, 2; Camera Club 1, 2; Classical Club 1, 2, 3; Football 1, 2, 3, 4; Interclass Basketball 1, 2, 3, 4.

Welby started in college "way back when"—in the days when they really did have Bird and Camera Clubs. It all goes to show the fightin', bred-in-the-bone, bulldog determination to plug through to a college education.

GUY HARRIS

Patriot, Indiana

Y. M. C. A. 1, 2, 3; Football 1; Literary Society 1.

A weakness for Summer School and lots of work meant that Harris could get through in three years. They had become so attached to him that the faculty said no when he wanted a vacation this summer.

GEORGE HITTLER  $B \Theta \Pi$

Chicago, Illinois

Lawrence College, Appleton, Wisconsin; Y. M. C. A. 2; Gospel Team 2, 3; Dramatic Club 2; President Dramatic Club 3; Secretary to Dr. Millis 2, 3; Press Club 3; Manager "Her Husband's Wife"; Editor-in-Chief Revonah.

Ye awful editor. 'Nuf sed!

EUGENE HOUGH  $\Phi \Delta \Theta$

Scottsburg, Indiana

Football 1, 2, 3, 4; Basketball 1, 2, 3, 4; Track 2, 3; Baseball 1, 2, 3, 4; Literary Society 1.

"Hough the Great" the Indianapolis News called him in Pigskin's colyum; "professional class president" others call him; "heart breaker" and "champion class cutter" are other names, but we like to think of him just as

"God's Gift to Girls."

REVONAH

AMOS JACKSON Θ K X

Versailles, Indiana

Literary Society 1; Interfraternity Basketball 1, 2, 3, 4; Classical Club 1, 2, 3; Y. M. C. A. 1, 2, 3, 4; Band 2; Press Club, 3, 4; Choir 4.

A big, red-blooded, fightin', four-square, gun-totin' he-man. Quick on the draw. "trigger-finger Ike," notches on his shootin' irons, etc., etc., etc. If you don't believe it just try a slip date out on the campus some night.

GLADYS JONES

Hanover, Indiana

"Gladys takes to 'A's' like a duck to water, Studies mighty hard so of course she oughter."

W. H. McNEELY

Madison, Indiana

One of the rhinies asked one day if McNeely wasn't a United States Senator; but no, he's just the radio and insurance man. So if your superheterodyne six develops an asthmatic carburetor or you feel in urgent need of a twenty payment life double indemnity accruable premium policy (whatever that is) the answer is: See McNeely.

GRACE McCURRY

Blotcher, Indiana

Y. W. C. A. 1, 2, 3, 4; Mathematics Club 3.

Grace comes from the little town where the state road looks as if it had been laid out by one of Volstead's enemies, but probably Grace can't help that. Another major in the math army.

REVONAH

JOHN MANAUGH

Hanover, Indiana

Freshman Football; Baseball 1; Literary Society 1, 3; Class Basketball 2, 3; Class Track Team 2; Y. M. C. A. 2, 3.

Sody-jerker extraordinary by vocation and local sport authority by avocation. Able to give any and all details of basketball, football, baseball, et cetera, all the way from Ananias to Zerubbabel.

HARRY MILLIGAN  $\Phi \Delta \Theta$

Waveland, Indiana

Literary Society 1, 2; Y. M. C. A. 1, 2, 3; Dramatic Club 2.

No, Beany is not a member of the Klan, nor is he a baby chick trainer, as the familiar "cluck-cluck" might indicate. He doesn't drink, smoke, chew, swear (beyond an occasional "by heck", gamble or otherwise dissipate.

FANNIE MIDDLETON

Scottsburg, Indiana

Y. W. C. A. 1, 2, 3; W. A. A. 1, 2, 3; Press Club 2, 3; Girl Reserve 2.

If Fannie Middleton were a math problem, you could write after her "Q. E. D." which would mean "Quiet, Efficient and Dependable."

LOIS MORROW  $A \Delta \Pi$

South Bend, Indiana

Y. W. C. A. Cabinet 1, 2, 3, 4; Dramatic Club 1, 2, 3, 4; Debating Team 2; Fellowship Club 2, 3, 4; Cast Junior Class Play; Gospel Team 2, 3, 4; W. A. A. 1, 2, 3, 4; Revonah Staff 3; Pan Hellenic Council 2, 3; President Student Council 4.

No, we aren't going to say a word about Gael. For one thing, Gael isn't in school now and none of the Freshmen know him. So it wouldn't be fair. And then this is about Lois and not Gael, so we won't even mention Gael.

IN MEMORIAM

When the hand of Fate reached down into our college community last September and took away from us our dear friend and college companion

BERNICE WATKINS

it seemed to those who knew her well that a light had been stolen, because her example was ever true, and her smile was ever cheery, and we loved to meet and talk with her upon the campus.
There are those in the student body for whom a day never breaks but it brings some remembrance of her. Our sympathies go out to her mother and brother; and to her, wherever she may be, we give our love and our pledge to carry through our lives some of the sunshine she so faithfully gave to us. We dedicate this page in memory of her.

CROWE FALLS

ALUMNI

---

The Hanover Boosters' Association was the dream of

HOWARD W. BRYDON

and when, as a result of his untiring efforts, it was organized, he became president. He served in this capacity for over a year, when he was taken from the organization and from his friends and relatives. We miss him from the campus at Hanover, and we miss him from the ranks of loyal alumni. That memory of him may remain ever more fresh in the minds of his friends, we dedicate this page to him.

Alumni Section

"All things come to him who waits," sang one of the champion optimists of the ages.

"If life holds out," wearily responded the college alumni.

"Then here's your chance, Methuselahs," shot back the sprightly editor of the yearbook. "Do your stuff. Let's see if you are as sure-fire as you once claimed."

"Hooray! Hooray!" shouted the old grads with increasing vigor. "Of course, we're still good. Give us elbow room and we'll show you."

* * * * *

This being a very feeble effort at a clever (we had intended to make it allegoric) way of introducing ourselves in that phenomenon, an alumni section written by alumni, we have already proved either that we are not of the stuff we once claimed, or that we at our best were fortunate in being spared the competition of 1926 yearbook editors.

Yet, in our stodginess, we do not fail to appreciate the recognition and honor accorded to Hanover alumni by the editor of the 1926 Revonah. Instead of following the usual practice of devoting to the grads a couple of pages of biographical notices that are so like the obituary columns in the newspapers, the broadminded young editor came to us and said: "You have five pages to fill as you please." No suggestions, no musts, no mustn'ts, no restrictions excepting those imposed by postal regulations. Broadminded young editor! He won't even see the copy for these five pages until he reads the proof, and then it will be too late to blue-pencil it—much.

But seriously, we alumni do enjoy the opportunity to express our thoughts once more in a college annual—thoughts on a few subjects that are near to our hearts. The privilege has been too long delayed, but the example set by the editor of this book should be emulated each year—with happier results, we hope, than are found in these five pages.

THE CENTENNIAL

One year from this spring, Hanover College and the alumni of Hanover will celebrate an outstanding event—the Centennial of the College. It will not be the hundredth commencement, of course, although the college celebration is planned for the commencement season, but it will be the hundredth anniversary of the founding of “Dr. Crowe’s Classical Academy.”

As Hanover has served well her hundreds of alumni, so do her alumni now owe her the service of a tribute of love and encouragement, a tribute to attest the gratitude for her hundred years of faithfulness and to pledge faith in her future. This is, therefore, a call—indeed, a command—to come back to Hanover, to join in the old College’s hundredth birthday party.

Relegating the trite phrases that may be, and are, aptly used in speaking of the history of any college, Hanover’s centennial is, in all of the fullness of the word, an event. Comparatively few colleges have survived to enjoy a centennial. Only Indiana University, in the Hoosier State, has preceded Hanover in the celebration of its hundredth birthday. Our sister school, Wabash College, founded some half dozen years later, will be the next to follow us. And, while all schools founded so long ago as to be nearing the century stage suffered vicissitudes that only the sturdiest could endure, the histories of few colleges record so many tribulations, such valliant struggles so many romantic incidents, such pioneering effort, as does Hanover’s. When some blessed person writes a complete history of Hanover College, it will be a romance to rival Ariel.

On January 1, 1827, Dr. John Finley Crowe opened, “in a log cabin which had been built for a different purpose on his own premises,” the Classical Academy which was to be Hanover College. Dr. A. Y. Moore’s “History of Hanover College” tells us that the first student body consisted of “six boys, not one of whom was pions, although all sons of the covenant.” The next year, several town lots were given to the college and, from the proceeds of the sale of these and from subscriptions, a brick home was built for the Academy. One year late, a gift of one hundred acres of land prompted the starting of the trade school that was a pioneer in this phase of education. A charter from the State Legislature was granted in 1833, and then the real history began.

Successive eras of prosperity and failure came. Fires, tornadoes, presidential resignations, cholera plagues and financial stringencies took turns at hitting the college when it was in the midst of promising periods. Dr. Moore relates the incident of the engaging of a president, back in 1838, who was welcomed heartily after a too-long presidentless period, but who was quickly dropped when it was learned that he had left a shady past up in the Canadian Northwest.

Then, too, there is the chapter about the removal of the College to Madison. Propaganda had its effect and the school moved down the hill and became Madison University. Hanover College’s charter was surrendered and the college building was sold to Dr. Crowe for $10. Dr. Crowe opened an academy at Hanover in competition with the university and soon the students and faculty began to trek back.

Then later came the period during which Hanover made athletic history—the first college football team in Indiana, state football champions for a number of years, the great Indian athlete, years when Indiana University was defeated more often than not, and when the Wabash and Butler games were practice contests.

And then to the later period about which most of us know first hand, or at least second hand. Incidentally, these later periods anxiously await the pen of the historian, who should take up his work while the sources of information are more easily at hand.

The opportunity to attend and join in the Centennial celebration offers former students of Hanover a privilege and an obligation not within the enjoyment of most persons. Alumni, and all former students, of course, should appreciate the gravity of this and be guided by the obligation.

But, even more than this, the week will be the occasion of the greatest influx of Hanover grads in history and of the greatest number of reunions, both formal and informal. The "remember-way-back-whenners" will have their inning then, and the recollection of any incident fewer than five years old will be greeted with derision and contempt. While there will be no prizes offered for the longest gray whiskers or the oldest diploma, the possessors of these will derive the most enjoyment.

So put Commencement Week of 1927 down as reserved for Hanover's birthday party. It will be another century before we can celebrate this way again, and we can not well afford to take this chance. We will attend Baccalaureate Service in the old brick church where we listened, on most Sundays, to supplications for blessings for almost everything but the football team and the Sigs. We will see the tennis tournament for the Sims trophy; we will see the class play, attend the alumni banquet, witness the field day events and, finally, watch the class of 1927 as it is graduated. We will cheer the achievements of the past and give aid to the plans of the future.

Remember—the first hundred years are the hardest.

THE HANOVER BOOSTER ASSOCIATION

The Hanover Booster Association is an organization of younger alumni and former students of Hanover College who are banding themselves together to do effective work for the college in every way that their available time and finances will permit.

Organized early in 1924, at South Bend, with a charter membership of six, and Dr. R. C. Shanklin, '03, as president, the Association has gradually developed in numbers and influence.

The charter members realized that an overly ambitious program would defeat its own aims. Suggestions of many alumni and former students were sifted to get a workable program. Other plans were kept in the background until the organization could develop sufficient strength to carry them out. There seems to be little chance now of failure because of attempting too much.

The Hanover Booster Association is sponsoring appointment of a full time alumni secretary in residence at Hanover. President Millis has agreed to recommend this to the college trustees, several of whom have already pledged support. This secretary will keep records of alumni and former students and furnish them with news of the college and of each other. He will also take charge of news service at the college, directing the preparation and release of all news about college affairs.

Those who have been away from the college campus a few years are fairly certain to lose some interest in the college life and in each other unless kept informed by some such agency as an alumni secretary. Mailing lists are soon useless unless someone is definitely responsible for keeping them up-to-date. Until the alumni secretary is secured, Booster Association officers are devoting as much time as they can spare from their regular occupations to maintaining indexed records.

Next on the Booster program is the maintenance of a high grade student body at Hanover. It has been agreed that Hanover can best serve as a liberal arts college, with a small and carefully selected student body. It is believed that the old Hanover traditions of inculcating high standards and ideals in the fundamental and non-technical preparation of men and women for leadership in the professions and business life should be upheld. Alumni and former students in the organization will do personal work with promising high school seniors to encourage them to go to Hanover, and will act as advisors in seeing that their experience there is worth while to them and to the college.

Realizing the value to a college of properly directed athletics, the Boosters are very definitely committed to a policy of support of the athletic department. During the past year they supplied funds to insure the retention of a well qualified athletic director who would also be an influence for good among the students.

Eventually Hanover clubs will be in existence in each county of Indiana, and in the larger centers outside of Indiana where a sufficient number of Hanoverians can be gathered together. At present the organization is general, with the usual officers and a board of directors. All members may attend and have equal share in discussions, and vote at the general annual meetings. In this way, policies of the Booster Association, as it develops, are just what the members make them and are not the ideas of any small group. Annual meetings will be held hereafter when the Indiana State Teachers' Association meets, in October, as alumni who are teaching can best attend at this time, and others will usually find the weather favorable for a trip to the capital city. Indianapolis was chosen as the meeting place because of its central location and nearness to Hanover.

Dues are four dollars a year. Part pays for a subscription to The Triangle, the college newspaper, adopted as the official medium of the Booster Association. The treasurer is bonded and invests the net proceeds of the dues, after deducting authorized sums for incidental expenses, in a permanent fund for use as the members may direct for Hanover's welfare.

Officers for 1926 are C. R. Macdonnell, 940 N. Jefferson, Indianapolis, president; Rev. George W. Allison, '10, 254 S. Ritter Ave., Indianapolis, vice-president; Paul V. Fitzgibbon, '19, 1525 Park Ave., Indianapolis, secretary; Dr. K. Palmer Miller, '10, Franklin, Indiana, treasurer. Directors: Henry W. Smith, '08, 229 Navarre, South Bend, Indiana; William A. Stark, '05, 200 Union Trust Building, Cincinnati; Dr. Fred Green, '04, Bloomington, Ind.; Albert H. Losche, '15, 2905 Washington Boulevard, Indianapolis.

CAMPUS ACTIVITIES

MAY QUEEN

Once a year the spirit of May comes round to touch the Hanover campus, and the scene changes from the drab, gray monotony of winter into the cool, sweet green of spring. Then it is that we select our Queen of the May to reign over us for a day, grace with her approval our efforts for her entertainment, and to receive our sincere esteem as representing a real Hanover Girl. In May, 1925, was crowned Queen of the May, and before her, and for her, the whole College joined in pageants and music, stunts and great hilarity.

MISS ELIZABETH WELLS

THE DRAMATIC CLUB

The Hanover Dramatic Club, an organization for the study and presentation of good plays, has had a successful year, during which new scenery and a new curtain have been provided for the Gymnasium stage. "Her Husband's Wife," by A. E. Thomas, was presented in Madison, a group of three one-act plays was presented by new members at an open house held in the Y. M. C. A. building, and another group of one-act plays was presented in co-operation with Miss Coddington's Class in Advanced Public Speaking. "Nothing But the Truth" was given during the spring term. The Club membership is as follows:

"HER HUSBAND'S WIFE"

The most elaborate undertaking of the Dramatic Club this year has been the presentation in Madison of the comedy, "Her Husband's Wife," by A. E. Thomas. This play was chosen in June, and during the summer Coach Fitzgibbon worked upon the script and chose a cast, so that rehearsals commenced with the opening of the fall term. However, the play was not given until November 13.

The following cast and business staff made the play a success:

SQUARE AND COMPASS CLUB

The SQUARE AND COMPASS CLUB was organized during the year of 1924-25 by a number of members of the Masonic fraternity in the student body and faculty, under the leadership of L. H. Munzenmayer, '25, who served as the first president of the organization. It is the object of the Club to afford instruction along the line of history, and other phases of Masonry not ordinarily touched upon in lodge work, and to offer a channel for Masonic social expression for all Masons in the college community.

Several meetings have been held during the college year in the homes of different members. Plans for a more widespread activity have been discussed, including the training of a degree team from the membership of the Club.

PHILAL-UNION LITERARY SOCIETY

Since its foundation Hanover has been noted for its support of literary work in various forms. It is true of this college to an extent equaled by few colleges in the middle west. One of the first incidents in the early history of the institution was the organization of the Union Literary Society, December 2, 1830. This was followed a few years later by the combination of two other societies to form Philalathean Literary Society. These two rival organizations promoted literary activity here for more than three-quarters of a century. They had periods of prosperity and adversity, but on the whole they played a vital part in the life of the college. Today Philal-Union Literary Society is the sole survivor of these two time-honored and traditional literary organizations. In 1917 the policy of compulsory membership was discontinued by the faculty, and the reaction resulted in the death of the two societies. In 1919 it remained for a few of those interested, to revive and reorganize the combined Philal-Union and to continue the work of the once flourishing

REVONAH

Union and Philalathean Societies. Since its reorganization the work of the new Society has grown and prospered until its membership numbers more than twenty active and interested men.

Meetings are conducted each Tuesday night in the old Philal Hall. The work of the society is both entertaining and of practical educational value. Programs consist of parliamentary wrangle, impromptu and extemporaneous speeches, readings, orations, essays, debates and an occasional mock trial. This year Philal-Union has made an active effort to promote debate on the Hanover Campus with the view of training intercollegiate teams for next year.

PRESS CLUB

Recognized on the Hanover Campus as one of our liveliest and most important organizations, the Press Club has just finished one of its successful seasons, when judged by size, enthusiasm of members, and the amount of work accomplished. The most noticeable success in the accomplishments of the organization is the development of the "Triangle." The club's membership is open to all students of Hanover, providing they are accepted by the members and can pass certain requirements.

This year the members have all worked well, and under the able leadership of the organization's officers have coöperated to make the Press Club a source of real pride to Hanover College.

TRIANGLE

Truly representative of the success of the Press Club is the College paper, the "Triangle." It is published weekly by the student members of the Press Club, and it is composed of contributions by the student body as well as the work of the regular Editorial Staff.

Many changes have been made in the paper in the last year, and the result has been that a better paper, which is of more interest to the students than ever before, has been published.

THE BOOSTERS' CLUB

The Club, in coöperation with the Alumni Boosters' Association of the College, makes its chief aim that of boosting Hanover. The Hanover College Boosters' Club, which, for the third time last year was organized on the campus, has continued its activities, and is now quite a prominent student organization. Its membership is composed of two representatives from each of the organized and unorganized groups of the college.

We give a vote of thanks to the Boosters' Club when we remember the boat excursion last spring term, and the all college hop fall term.

STUDENT FELLOWSHIP CLUB

The Student Fellowship Club is a world-wide organization of students who are training to enter life service as Christian workers. The purpose of the organization is to weld these students together so that there may be a greater inspiration for better work, and an opportunity to discuss the different problems with which the members come in contact.

The organization on the Hanover Campus has had a successful and profitable year. The club meets every two weeks for a picnic supper, out-of-doors, or in the "Y" building. At each meeting there is the social time at supper, a devotional service, and a business session.

The only requirement for entrance is that the candidate shall be working to enter Christian life work.

Y. M. C. A. CABINET

The Young Men's Christian Association sponsors worthwhile things. The executive work of the organization is carried on by the men's "Y" Cabinet. This Cabinet acts as a governing body, outlines the programs, and promotes the work of the Y. M. C. A., coöperating with the executive body of the Y. W. C. A. to form a joint cabinet, in which problems of common interest to both organizations are considered. One of the principal contributions of the Y. M. C. A. Cabinet this year has been the active part it has played in conducting an open student forum on the World Court question prior to the student vote.

Weekly meetings are held by the "Y" Cabinet every Tuesday evening in the "Y" hall. These meetings are followed by the joint meetings of the two cabinets.

Y. W. C. A. CABINET

The Y. W. C. A. is a strong organization in sponsoring good things on the campus. This year the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A., by coöperating, have endeavored to broaden student thought by World Court discussion groups, and also lively discussions of campus problems.

Social life and college spirit are not overlooked. During the fall term football receptions were given after the games, a big Christmas bazaar was held to create more Christmas spirit, and of course with the spring Hanover's special attraction, May Day keeps every student interested and active.

GOSPEL TEAM

As an organization in which preparatory students can find a way to express their convictions, and for ministerial students to gain invaluable practice, the Gospel Team has no equal upon the campus. For these reasons, the best that a group of Christian young people can give in sermons, music, and devotional exercises is the standard that is rigidly upheld by the members of the Gospel Team.

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The Women's Athletic Association began a very successful year with a picnic at the river for every Hanover girl, which aroused a great amount of enthusiasm that has not slackened throughout the year. Early in the fall term Hanover was surprised by the revival of the Big Carnival by the W. A. A. In December, thirty girls were put through the trying events of initiation, and those surviving became members of the Association.

The Association stands for good posture, healthful living, and clean sports. New girls, together with the old members, have shown their skill in track, basketball, baseball and tennis. Every member is much interested in winning points for a letter or sweater, which will be awarded at the Annual Banquet.

THE GREEKS

BETA THETA PI IOTA CHAPTER

Beta Theta Pi was founded at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, August 8, 1839. Iota chapter was founded May 19, 1853, but existed "sub rosa" for some time as the college officials did not approve of college fraternities on the Hanover campus. When the existence of Beta Theta Pi in Hanover was made known a struggle ensued between the college and the fraternity but in the end Beta Theta Pi was allowed to continue.

In 1923 work on a new home was begun and the building was ready for occupancy in the fall of 1924. The new home has proved to be a great advantage in bringing the chapter into more concerted action. It has also greatly enhanced the beauty of Hanover.

The fraternity colors are light pink and light blue, the flower is the American Beauty Rose.

PHI DELTA THETA INDIANA EPSILON CHAPTER

Phi Delta Theta was founded at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, in the year 1848. The colors are argent and azure; flower, the white carnation; and the publication, the "Scroll." From its small beginning of six men, it has grown into a national organization which now ranks well toward the top of the list of Greek letter organizations in membership and property value. Nearly every prominent college and university in the United States has a chapter of Phi Delta Theta and the "loyal Phis" in each institution are doing great things to place Phi Delta Theta in the front rank.

In 1924 through the efforts of the chapter and of Howard W. Brydon, and the liberal assistance of alumni, the chapter erected a well equipped house, which is located on College Avenue, directly across from the athletic field.

PHI GAMMA DELTA

Phi Gamma Delta was founded May 1, 1848, in old "Fort" Armstrong, at Jefferson College, Pennsylvania. The growth of the fraternity was rapid throughout the south till the Civil War when the growth spread to the north.

The magazine is "The Phi Gamma Delta," the color is royal purple, and the flower, which was lately changed, is the purple clematis.

Tau Chapter was established February 5, 1864, at the old Madison Hotel, in Madison. At this time secret societies were under the ban of faculty and literary societies, and the fraternity existed "sub-rosa." Before long these restrictions were lifted, and Deltas, as Phi Gams were known in those days, became prominent in college life.

The first meeting place was in an old house near Butler Falls. Later the Hall over the butcher shop in the West End was used and in 1912 the present house was completed.

THETA KAPPA NU

Theta Kappa Nu will soon have finished two years of existence in the fraternity world. Theta Kappa Nu was organized on June 9-10, 1924, at Drury College, Springfield, Missouri. The charter members included eleven chapters located in eight states. Indiana Alpha is fortunate in having the honor of being a charter member. Indiana Alpha was installed on the Hanover Campus October 11, 1924.

Since that time three more charters have been granted to chapters in this state.

The colors are crimson, argent and sable; the flower, the white rose; and the magazine, "Theta News."

The fraternity has grown considerably in the last two years. At the present time there are thirty-three chapters in eighteen states on the chapter roll.

IOTA PHI

Colors, pink and green; flower, pink rose; motto, Alter ego est amicus.

Iota Phi was organized three years ago to meet the needs of the non-fraternity woman and to draw her into the social life of the campus.

Every member looks upon Iota Phi as a medium through which she may be a better Hanoverian, cultivate more ideal friendships, and enlarge her social relations. Much of the success of the organization has been due to the enthusiasm which Irene Portass instilled into Iota Phi when she founded it. Since that time, the girls have striven to heighten the ideals on the campus and to live up to the traditions of the college.

THE GYMNASIUM

ATHLETICS

ORVILLE AUVERN HALL

Some poet-philosopher once wrote that "when the One Great Scorer comes" he will record not whether you won or lost, "but how you played the game." That man didn't know Coach Hall, but we can think of no better inspiration for such a verse than Orville Auvern Hall, Hanover's coach since 1923. Above all, "Orv" is a man who "plays the game."

With two years each at Wabash and Earlham, with work under Rockne and at Illinois U., Coach Hall came to Hanover in the fall of 1923 eminently fitted to lift Hanover to a new place in athletics. And he has done it. Not, possibly, in the coldly callous entries on the scorekeeper's book, for many of them would be in red ink, but in many other ways.

In three brief years to earn for Hanover throughout the State the reputation of having "fightin' Hilltopper" teams, to completely revolutionize the spirit of the teams, to change athletic finances to a thoroughly sound basis and to lift immeasurably the athletic morale of the college, means that a coach must be more than a coach. He must be a fighter, a leader, an executive, a man. All of which, in high degree, is Coach Hall.

Who more thoroughly exemplifies his own simple recipe for college spirit: first, be honest; second, put all you have into the game?

"BILLY" LUTHER.....Assistant Cheer Leader

Pep, and Enthusiasm!

The above three can take a dead crowd and make a howling mass of enthusiasts out of it. Time after time, when the game was close, or when the score needed to be pushed up, or when the spirit of the stands seemed to be flagging, these men took the floor and put the necessary pep into the vocal support of our teams. They were faithful in their duties, reporting along the sidelines for each football game, and their red sweaters could be seen at every basketball game on the home floor. Hanover will miss "John Bill" next year, for he graduates with the Class of '26, but Williams and Luther will both be on hand to keep Hanover spirit going. Their job is big; may they do it well.

"DICK" BECK

Equipped with an adequate amount of practical experience and uncanny ability in imparting the fundamentals to others, Beck was a track coach hard to equal. With practically no experienced material his job looked almost hopeless, but the manner in which work progressed was a surprise to everyone. He developed his material until he had a well balanced aggregation capable of standing up against any group of track athletes in the state. More important however, than the rapid strides accomplished immediately was the uncovering of material and talent that will prove invaluable in the next few years.

All in all, Hanover's debut into Indiana intercollegiate track circles under the leadership of Coach Beck was successful and his methods of training and developing were appreciated by all loyal supporters of Hanover.

CLIFFORD CLEVER

Hanover was indeed fortunate in securing an assistant coach for the 1925 football season, and with Clifford Clever acting as such, the duties of Coach Hall were diminished considerably. Clever held several positions on the Hilltopper Eleven during his four years in college, and friends and alumni will recall his consistent work as a fighting player. Being of a serious nature, Clever maintained a great respect from those who labored under him and his faithfulness was a large help in the building of the football machine.

Besides holding the position of assistant football coach, Clever also had charge of the gym instruction classes for men. His system of training was of a strenuous nature and the calisthenics he taught is about the best that has ever been used in Hanover.

DALPHA GREGORY—End

The picture above displays a man with a real football build, and a rather good looking chap, too. Greg had a rather rough season. He suffered from several injuries, but while in the game he played his position well. Greg was a good receiver of passes. A letter man.

LAWRENCE PEUGH—End

This country lad is bound to make one of the regular ends step mighty fast for that position next fall. It was his first season but he took the game seriously and put lots of effort into his work. He did fine relief work in the games.

GEORGE ALEXANDER—Tackle

"Shorty" made good in his first year of intercollegiate football and with the aid of experience during the next three years he should round into an All-State man. The results of his playing in the past season showed he had plenty of fight and a cool head for the sport. Shorty likes the game and with his big frame should soon become a competent tackle. Speed is one of his big features, and this enabled him to get down under punts before the receiver had a chance to make his dash up the field.

ROGER WHITCOMB—Halfback

In "Beany," Coach Hall has a wonderful prospect for a great halfback. Weighing less than 135 pounds one would think he would not be able to do any serious threatening, but in his exhibitions last fall we saw what could be done by one with such a small physique. Every night during practice he did better than the night before, until finally he got his chance in the Indiana Central game. He won honors in the final game when he carried the ball, single handed, the whole length of the field. A final plunge over the chalk mark gave him his first touchdown. We are looking forward to seeing the results of his willingness next year.

REVONAH

ALLEN CRANE—Guard

"Funny" was injured early in the season but after a slow convalescence rapidly got into stride with the rest of the Hilltoppers and put his fighting features into play to make a great comeback, which made him eligible for the Blue "H." This was his first year on the squad, but from his playing one would not get that impression, because Funny learned quickly and turned out the goods. Three more years on the squad will add much to his present style of play.

HERMAN FURNISH—Halfback

This serious picture of "Red" is somewhat the way he looks on the gridiron. After a rather late start he came through in fine style, and with only experience to hinder his climb he will soon be a hard man to replace. Red's one drawback is stage fright, but with a few more big games this will be overcome. He is a hard man to tackle.

ALBERT JINKS—End

Jinks was usually the starting end and he did some great work while on duty. Not many end runs came his way and got past. He always played a smashing game both on the offense and defense, and was a fast man under punts. Another year with the team will add to his knowledge, and better results will inevitably come.

RAY HETHERINGTON—Tackle and End

"Cockeye" is from a country where they start making a football man before he leaves the cradle and evidently this is true in his case because his broad knowledge of the game has been demonstrated during the past year. "Icicle Ray" kept up his reputation as being a hard player, and he exhibited some real football during 1925. He displayed some fine work on end in the last three games. Most of the backfield men of Earlham will recall his vicious tackles.

IVAN BRYNGELSON—End

An early-season injury kept Bryng, regular end, out of most of the games. His absence weakened the right side of the line considerably, and many times Hanover wished that he might be on the field. But his injury did not prevent his playing the number of quarters required for his letter. The entire college is looking forward to his return to full time playing during the next two years, when his brainy work cannot fail to boost Hanover.

WELBY FARRELL—Tackle

Farrell lacked weight, but made up for this handicap by his snappy spirit, as all of his games illustrated. Seldom did he let the other man get the jump on him, and on the offense he was a tower of strength and a good man to open a hole. "Web" was injured in the middle of the season, but with his mind set he stuck it out and made good his intentions, and received his letter. This was his last year, and he will indeed be missed.

MONROE McKEAND—End

McKeand was another man who had little knowledge of football, but he learned the game speedily and with his ability as a runner he showed promise of becoming an end of no small ability. Hanover is watching McKeand's development closely.

GEORGE PRIME—Halfback

The 1925 season saw Prime at his best. He was free from old injuries and was again able to put real drive behind his plunges and oftackle thrusts. When yards were needed it was Prime who pushed the ball over, and as a passer he stood head and shoulders over his team mates. Crowds were thrilled by his long twisting passes, as they were accurately placed in the arms of the receiver. Prime will do even better next year, when he will be a senior.

REVONAH

DAVIS DUNCAN—Guard

"Fat" did not work on a stone pile before the season opened, but he lost weight fast, laboring under the hot sun during training season. He made Stub step when they ran the 100-yard dash and sometimes copped the event. But, to be serious, he was a powerful man in the line, and it will not surprise many of the Hanover followers if he places on the All-State selection next fall. Always good natured, he played a clean and steady game, keeping his man out of the play, and got his share of bumps in the attempt.

MCCOY BURKHOLDER—Halfback

This youngster traveled far to exhibit his talents. The Montana boy must have played with the cowboys, as he always took punishment in an easy manner and returned it with vicious tackles and clever blocks. Mac is a steady, hard worker, which fact will give him good results next year.

EUGENE HOUGH—Fullback

Not a better all-around man ever donned a red uniform than Hough, and in his four years of playing for his Alma Mater we find that he was characterized for his fighting spirit and plugging for the team. Hough always displayed a powerful defense and on the offense he carried the pigskin for many long gains, while his educated toe kept the opponents back by long spirals that showed high accuracy. During the last season he led the state in individual scoring, with a total of fifty-six points.

GEORGE MALEK—Tackle

Using his good, solid physique to a decided advantage, Malek, after constant practice, made a fine impression on the coach, and playing with a grim determination, he was given the chance and gained sufficient quarters to make his "H." With speed that is seldom seen in big men, Malek developed into a fast charger and was a big obstacle in the opponents' offense. He has three more years to fight for Hanover.

KEENE STUBBLEFIELD—Guard

Office jobs were scarce in North Vernon last summer and "Stub," after a courageous effort, finally accepted a pick and shovel position. No doubt it was tough on the man, but the results were astonishing, for it was a new man who played the game under his name. His appearance was a decided change but the greatest change was his decided increase in speed. If Coach had kept him running the 100-yard dash for another week Joie Ray would have to make a new record. Stub always was a hard man to get through and with more experience will develop into a splendid guard.

JAMES OAKES—Guard

It is not always the weight that makes the football player and this was demonstrated when he saw this small bundle of humanity tear through the opposing line and stop the runner in his tracks time after time. "Jimmie" gained experience at Shortridge and if his knowledge increases he will be able to give a good account of himself during the next three years.

WARREN HUMRICHOUSE—End

"Kans" was another of our relief men and when called upon to perform he was there with the stuff. He fought a hard battle in every practice game against the varsity. With more experience he will soon develop into a fast and shifty end.

DONALD HUDSON—Quarterback

"Don" learned the game in Ohio and demonstrated his ability by barking the signals with keen generalship and a steady head. Although small in stature he is a good man in the interference. The burden did not often fall on Don to carry the ball but when the occasion arose to take it he showed deceptive running tactics, and is really a difficult man to down. As a defensive player he was in every play. A great deal is expected from him next year.

REVONAH

CHARLES BEER—Center, Acting Captain

Although "Charlie" had only a small knowledge of football before coming to Hanover, in no way did it hinder his rapid success in the game, and during his four years here he maintained his position at center with great efficiency. Fame came to him after two hard years of constant practice and his ability was rewarded by a position on the All-State team. However, Charlie always kept a level head and was an ideal captain. Another distinction for him is that during his four years he missed only one practice, due to a conflict with his Latin class.

ORVILLE HODSON—Halfback

This was "Dossie's" second season on the team and in all ways it was a great one for him. This diminutive half never showed inclinations toward slowing up, and time after time he slid off tackle for neat gains. His size enabled him to get through the smallest of holes, and when once out in the open he was hard to stop. Dossie returned punts like a veteran, and did his share on the defense.

KENNETH PROPST—Center and Tackle

Aggressiveness was always characteristic in "Whiz's" play. He was sub-center and learned the art of handling the pigskin with accuracy. On the offense Whiz met his man with a bang and broke up plays before they got under way. Another year of the game will add polish to his present ability and should give him a chance to win his second letter.

SIDNEY STROTHMAN—Halfback and Quarter

"Sid" is the other member of the trio from the Gopher State. This Eskimo found it rather difficult to get used to the new environment and the hot sun slowed him up somewhat. However, after other complications, for instance, broken ribs and a sprained ankle, he finally recovered sufficiently to play the required number of quarters and receive his well-earned letter. Sid did his best work in the St. Mary's game when he carried the oval for several good gains and was also given the chance to show his ability to run the team from the quarter position. The next three years will have a decided effect on this man's playing.

"BOB" SPITLER

"Bob" is a sturdily built freshman and he shows promise of developing into a floor guard of high calibre. His continuous drive and punch were noteworthy and he was a dribbler of no small ability. He always put speed into the offense. He broke into most of the games and performed like a veteran. He is another brilliant prospect for future teams.

"JOHNNIE" CUTSHAW

"Johnnie" was one of our midget freshmen who proved himself to be possessed of a world of speed on the hardwood. His fast floor work was the feature of several games. He works principally at floor guard. Gifted with the ability to snag baskets from long range he fitted in nicely at this position. He was given honorable mention in several state newspaper selections of All-State teams and with three years yet remaining to follow the sport he is sure to climb high on the Indiana collegiate basketball ladder.

"BEANIE" WHITCOMB

Another little fellow, but like Cutshaw he is one single burst of speed on a basketball floor. "Beanie" hails from Vernon. This was his first year in big time competition and he surely bore up well under it. "Beanie" was the fastest forward and most deceptive dribbler Hanover had and his work the latter part of the season was a delight to all who saw him play. He was a good shot and could sail in under the basket like a streak for a setup. With another year of college competition he will rank with the best forwards in the state.

"CHARLIE" BEER

"Charlie" is another senior who is one of the greatest athletes Hanover has turned out. Long and rangy, he was a center who ranked with the class of the state. Bad luck overtook him in the middle of the season, just when he was hitting a dizzy pace at point getting. A small sore on his arm became infected and proved so serious that he was unable to finish the season. His height and fast work under the basket will be missed next year when the "Fightin' Hilltoppers" line up for another season.

"COCKEYE" HETHERINGTON

Out of the "wilds" of Minnesota "Cockeye" descended upon Hanover and tried his luck at Hoosier basketball and by hard work and persistent effort made the squad. In the few games in which he participated this season his speed and pep were in evidence. With two years yet remaining to play under the colors of Hanover he should develop into a valuable man. He filled in at center and at back guard.

"RED" FURNISH

"Red" played his second year on the varsity and performed in his usual consistent manner. He was a floor guard who was always in front of the opponents' passes and was quick to start the ball basketward. He was quick to see an opening for a short shot beneath the basket and tallied several times by this route. He has two more years to play and can be depended upon to be an important cog in the Hilltopper net machine.

GEORGE MALEK

George is a big, husky freshman from the Sucker State and characteristic of the style of basketball of that state he proved to be a tower of strength on the defense. His performance at back guard was outstanding throughout the season and it was in very few minutes of play that he failed to take part. His fine showing for his first year assures us that he is going to be an important factor in the success of the future teams.

JOHN TRAPP

Plenty of speed and a keen eye for the net splendidly sums up the ability of Trapp. This was John's first year with us, but he lost no time in showing us that he could have been useful long before. He broke into several games and worked the floor perfectly. Incidentally he always managed to find the loop for needed markers. His three remaining years point to a bright future at the game.

"FUNNY" CRANE

"Funny" came to us last year from Butler and has proved his worth as a basketball player. He played at forward and was a man who could work with anyone. He was noted more for this quality than as a point getter, nevertheless he often found the hoop for clean-cut shots. As he is only a sophomore much is expected of him in the future.

"GENE" HOUGH

The end of the net season saw "Gene" Hough ending a long and brilliant collegiate athletic career. "Gene" has taken the knocks on the gridiron and the hardwood for four years and his spirit and leadership will be sadly missed. At forward he was always a dangerous man and was always noted for coming through with added punch when it was needed most. His good sportsmanship was always in evidence and he was always a favorite with the fans wherever he played. It will be a problem to find a consistent, hardworking man to fill the gap left by his going.

"DOSSIE" HODSON

"Dossie" is a little fellow, but made up for his lack of size with an enormous amount of fight and spirit. He was utility forward and always came through with the goods whenever he was given the opportunity. He is a junior and will have another year to demonstrate his ability for Hanover.

"DALPHY" GREGORY

"Dalphy" was Hanover's long range shot and helped pull more than one game out of the fire by his uncanny ability to hit the basket from deep court. He was also a fast man down the floor and dropped more than one in from directly beneath the basket. Two years remain for him to play. He will be an important offensive man for Hanover in the coming seasons.

INTERFRATERNITY BASKETBALL

Phi Delta Theta won the basketball shield this year. The games were hot, because rivalry between groups was strong and feeling ran high. After a series of games in which the Betas and the Theta Nus were defeated, Phi Gamma Delta and Phi Delta Theta took the floor to decide the year's contests, and to determine the holder of the shield. The Phi Gams, having won the shield for two successive years, were in line for its permanent possession, and made a glorious effort to win; but they were defeated by only a small margin, and the shield became the property of the Phi Delts for one year. The members of the winning team were as follows:

Raymond Hetherington	Allan Crane	Herman Furnish
Orville Hodson	George Alexander	J. Davis Duncan
John Cutshaw	John Scott	Donald Hudson
	Robert Bell

Baseball

ORVILLE HODSON

"Dossie" was the little fellow who ran circles around third base, snagging them hot off the bat and firing them to second for a fast double. He was a fast man on the base paths and made several runs. He was not a heavy hitter, but used his head and generally reached first. "Dossie" has another season to hold down the hot corner.

ROBERT BELL

"Bob" took his turn on the mound and proved that he had real ability in this capacity. He has a good strong arm and with a little more control and experience under fire he will be capable of holding his own with the best hitters. He is a sophomore and will give valuable service in coming seasons.

HAROLD MATHISON

"Knute" was a utility infielder and a mighty neat one. He could always step in front of the hottest ones and make a clean catch. He was used at short stop and second principally, and was a pinch hitter of note. With his ability and hard work he should have a varsity berth awaiting him in his remaining three years.

REVONAH

GEORGE PHEASANT

"Fuzz" was a utility outfielder who was always hustling. He broke into most of the games and would probably have played regular but for a slight weakness in batting which can be overcome with another season's training. He has three years ahead of him.

VERLE RUMSEY

Rumsey was the big power of the Hilltopper pitching staff. Only a freshman, but he broke into college baseball with a bang, holding his own with the best pitchers in the state. He was a rangy, coolheaded player and being a southpaw, had the batters who faced him worried all of the time. With proper care and training he will be a hurler who can win ball games consistently for Hanover.

HAROLD DONAHUE

"Oster" was a bundle of grit and spirit behind the bat and was a backstop that any pitcher could work with because he was always working himself. He is only a freshman but he handled himself as a veteran. He had a bullet-like peg to second and spoiled many an over-zealous runner's attempt to steal. His work at the bat was not lacking either as he poled out clean hits to start rallies for Hanover several times. His work will be available to Hanover for three more seasons.

REVONAH

CHARLES BEER

Long and rangy, "Charlie" was a man you would expect to find at first base, but Coach found him of more value as a shortstop and put him down where he could snag grounders and start fast double plays. He was not a home run king at the bat but could usually get a healthy swat against the best of twirlers. With another season left "Charlie" will be an important cog in the Hanover baseball machine.

MARSHALL LASWELL

"Mishie" was the man you always found parked under every pellet that sailed out into right field. A world of speed and an eye for judging the ball enabled him always to be under them. Although he was not a natural hitter he usually could come through with a clean single or a double when it was most needed. His help on the diamond will be realized for three years yet as this was his first attempt at college baseball.

DONALD ULRICH

Ulrich was a hard playing outfielder who proved himself to be a valuable man for his first year. He could handle any outfield post equally well but was generally placed in left field. He took the power out of his batting by a choke hit fault. This was largely overbalanced however by his brilliant defensive playing and he will develop into a dangerous man in the course of another year or two.

REVONAH

"GENE" HOUGH

"Gene" was a reliable first baseman who went up in the air to make outs of apparent overthrows. At the bat he was a consistent hitter and his blows were not at all of the small variety. Hough had the advantage of several years experience and could always be depended on to come through in his consistently brilliant manner.

ARTHUR FUNK

Funk was the one real natural ball player on the Hanover squad. His position was center field, but he could come into the infield and perform equally well. He also acted in the role of relief pitcher in a few games and had a collection of curves that any full-time pitcher would appreciate. At the bat he was the heaviest hitter Hanover had, taking a long natural swing that often lifted the ball over the fence to clear the bases. He will hold down his post for two more seasons.

Track

REVONAH

HERMAN FURNISH

"Red" was always a good trainer and a hard worker on the track. He ran the 100 yard dash and the 220 low hurdles well and was also a point getter in the javelin and the pole vault. He is fast on the short runs and needs only a little more training on his start to develop into a valuable dash man.

FOSTER BOYD

Boyd was a faithful trainer and made a good impression on everyone who saw him run the 440 yard dash. Experience and further coaching will make him a quarter miler of ability who will collect points for Hanover.

CHARLES MITCHELL

"Chuck" was the all around man on the Hanover track team, usually entering in the javelin throw, shot put, discus throw, high and low hurdles, and the broad jump. He was high point man in the two dual meets and also brought back two points for Hanover from the state meet at Richmond. He has another season to perform on the cinder path for Hanover and he is expected to help bring further victories for the Hilltoppers.

EMERSON HARRELL

Harrell was another freshman, but was a distance runner of ability. He won several points in dual meets and always ran a heady race. Another years of development will make him a valuable man to the Hanover track squad.

MONROE McKEAND

"Mac" was the young man who was given the task of staying on the heels of the sensational Phillips of Butler at the state meet. He was not content to do this but lead the field for the greater part of the race. He won every race he ran in the dual meets, and with a little more perfection in style of running should rank as one of the leading milers of the state.

RAY HETHERINGTON

Ray was a typical 440 yard dash man, being long of stride and possessing an inexhaustible amount of endurance. He took a twirl at the 100 and 220 yard dashes occasionally, with fair success. He made a game effort in the 440 at the state meet. With a little more experience, he can become a quarter miler who will rank with the best in the state.

THOMAS HALL

"Tommy" was just a small freshman, but proved himself to be worthy of attention by his ability to hurdle and pole vault. He was a good trainer and was always working to perfect his form. He will be a point getter for the Hilltoppers this season.

ARTHUR FUNK

"Art" took time off from baseball long enough to come out and prove his worth as broad jumper. He possessed ample speed on his take-off and always got up in the air for a good long jump. His remaining two years with us as a baseball player and a track man will be warmly welcomed.

THEODORE WAGGONER

Another distance man who will bear watching. He was always out for practice, and putting in hard licks to develop himself into a consistent half-miler. He has three more years to work for the blue and red, and is certain to prove his worth.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Two years ago the girls of Hanover College organized a basketball team with Mary Margaret Johnson as coach. At the beginning of the fall term, in 1925, the idea of having a team this year took possession of the girls and a few weeks before Thanksgiving practice was started, with Darby Davis as coach.

The team was under the auspices of W. A. A. and from the beginning the girls showed a marked interest in the sport. Due to the fact that many of the girls were inexperienced and had never played together before, they lost their first two games: one to Deputy and one to Butlerville.

Real practice began after these defeats and the girls were determined to have a team which could not be beaten. Just before Christmas vacation, on December 18, the team journeyed to North Madison and won a glorious victory in an overtime game, to the tune of 16 to 14.

Strenuous practice was resumed during the second term, and when the North Madison girls visited Hanover they suffered their second defeat in a fast game, with a score of 11 to 10.

The Hanover girls had three other games scheduled; but because of the vaccination plague they were forced to cancel them. However, as soon as the girls were out of exile, the old pep returned, and after two evenings of snappy practice the team journeyed to Butlerville.

One of the best girls' games ever witnessed was played on that floor on the night of March the ninth. It was fast and exciting, and showed that the girls had received some real coaching, and knew the meaning of team work. The game was close throughout, and ended in a grand victory for Hanover, 13 to 12. Since Butlerville is considered one of the best girls' teams in this part of the state, the girls and their coach certainly deserve the honor and praise of the Hanover student body. Yea! Rah! Girls!

With the wealth of material and the keen interest displayed by the girls, Hanover should put out a record breaking team in the future.

Harper's Drug Store

THIS store is one of the old land marks of Madison, long operated in early days by that good old Baptist leader, J. E. C. F. Harper, humorously known as Alphabet Harper from the numerous initial letters in his name. Later the business was known as Harper and Firth, Mr. Firth, one of Brooksbury's leading citizens and business men, becoming a partner in the business, remaining until his death. The original proprietor was succeeded by his nephew, Mr. Frank M. Harper, who placed the business upon a high pinnacle of success and good will. Since his sudden and deplorable death three years ago, the business has been managed by his son, Mr. Merritt C. Harper, who has successfully maintained the high standard of business ethics in the conduct of the business that his father set before him. As a combined result, the old name, the well known long line of courtesy and the knowledge generally that only first class goods and courteous dealing faces the customer who enters the store, from the proprietor down to his youngest assistant, has made it one of the leading stores in Southern Indiana and a safe place to have your doctor's prescriptions filled.

QUOTATIONS

Do you recognize any of these as your own effort?

Hanover is situated on a hill overlooking the Ohio and the faculty are easy to get along with.

I like Hanover because of its beautiful scenery and faculty.

While trying to swim a plan presented itself.

When eight years old my parents moved to Hanover.

A snake bit one of the boys on the arm which has since died.

He found a diamond ring running down the road.

Mr. Smith was fond of roast pork which died yesterday.

Having been badly smashed up while he was in the hospital his car was repaired.

Mr. Brown with malice in his heart and a sharp knife in his hand stabbed the minister on the church steps.

Having been knocked off the car the man carried the tire in the shop.

I came to Hanover because the location is very attractive and board cheap.

I scratched me finger on the furnace and it became infected.

Oxford bags are all right in their place, but where is that place?

Hanover is a good place to have dates, but you have to have a car. Then if you have a car you can go somewhere else.

Baggy are his trousers

That flap in the breeze

They do not fit him at the tops

Or even at the knees

His coat is tight

And as short as it can be

You should take a look at him

He's quite a sight to see.

He hangs around the drug store

And gives the girls a treat

He puts out the glad hand

To every one he meets

You know him just as well as I

For he's the college sheik.

What do you think?

Of the fellow who thinks he's collegiate?

Of the Prof that locks his classroom door?

Of the person that sits down to brush his teeth?

Student: The population in that part of Kentucky is not very dense.

Prof. Woody: On the contrary, the population is quite dense.

Prof. Huber: Mr. Bogardus, name twelve animals found in the Arctic region.

Bogie: Six bears and six sea lions

Prof. Gold: Mr. Williar, that is a free translation.

Ed.: No, it isn't, I paid a dollar for it.

Prof. Huber: What is the growing part of the stem?

McFall: I can't pronounce the word.

Another Student: Bud.

One Roommate: I just sunk two dollars in the ponies today.

Other: I didn't know you bet on the races.

First: Oh, these were French ponies.

HIGH FINANCE

A Scotchman named Sandy and a Jew named Abie were friends. Sandy owned a race horse which the Jew wanted to buy. Sandy told him he would take seven hundred dollars for him, but Abie would not give more than five hundred for him. Abie also stated that any time Sandy wanted to sell him the bid would still be open.

Abie moved away to another town. After he had been gone a week the Scotchman's horse died. Sandy saw his chance to make five hundred dollars, so he covered the horse with burlap and sent it to Abie. Sandy received a check for five hundred dollars and wondered why the Jew had done this. The next day Sandy went to see Abie to find out about the transaction.

"Did you get the horse," he asked.

"Yes," replied Abie, "and I made four hundred dollars."

"Well," continued Abie, "When I knew the horse was coming I sold ten chances for one hundred dollars each to my friends."

"But didn't the lucky man kick?" asked Sandy.

"Oh, yes," answered the Jew, "but I gave him back his hundred dollars."

Stranger: Can you tell me where I can find Orville Hall?

Prof. Glazer: We do not have a building by that name around here.

NOT SO LONG AGO IN HANOVER:

The Junior Prom was a yearly event.

The girls wore dresses down to their heels.

Fellows wore fraternity pins on their coat lapels.

The center on the football team was known as the passer-back.

Men had to wear a black derby or be social outcasts.

The "Dorm" was a good place to have dates.

Some young inventor from college should invent a spark plug for Fords that would brush its own teeth.

Palmist: You are going on a long trip.
Doc Lewis: That's right, I'm going home this week end.

Lonis Bumen: I don't feel like dancing. I would rather stay here by the window.
"Lonisville Lou": Well, we are going to Charleston.

Marion: Where are you going with that axe, Gregory?

Dalphi: I'm going out to cut a few classes.

Gladys: I'm ready now.
Charlie: You'll have to wait till I go home and shave. (Time and beard wait on no woman).

John Bill: Hang on to those two wires.
Bryng: All right.
Pfaff: Feel anything?
Bryng: No.
John Bill: Don't touch the other two, they are the live ones.

FACULTY MEETING

Prexy: Will the meeting please come to order? Since Cubby has lost the secretary's book the minutes of last meeting will not be read. There is a very important question before this meeting: Is Hanover one of the advantageous points for radio broadcasting?

Monte gets up and aimlessly wanders around the room.

Prexy: Do you want the floor, or will the door do just as well?

Gerald E.: I move that Fords be the only make of automobiles allowed in Hanover.

Fitz.: I amend that motion to the effect that the salaries of the faculty be increased twenty per cent.

Prexy: All in favor

The faculty answers loudly in the affirmative.

Woody: Realizing the natural beauty in and around Hanover that up to this time has not been recognized by the government, I move that Crowe Falls be made into a National park.

Mary C.: I amend that motion to read, "An electric railway be constructed from the 'Dorm' to the bathing beach."

Motion and amendment passed.

Prof. Carson: To keep the campus safe I recommend that the college gates be closed every night at sundown.

Loud applause.

Meeting adjourned.

There are two kinds of people in this world, those that "gripe" and those that "gripe" more.

After being questioned by his fraternity brothers about the new girl:

"What's her name," asked one of the brothers.

"I don't know," he answered, very unconcerned. "I just go down to the 'Dorm' and whistle."

COLLEGIATE QUALIFICATIONS (?)

1. His college course must be at least three years, and not more than eight.

2. He must be either an athlete, scholar, or have a pull with the faculty.

3. He must use perfect English.

4. He must neither drink, smoke nor chew. (Nothing excepted).

5. He must not be able to dance; if he even watches the "Charleston" he'll be banned.

6. He must take some course while in college.

7. He must not reside in a foreign country, such as Marietta, or Tennessee.

8. He must not weigh over 500 pounds. (Ye Joke Editor feels entitled to some consideration.)

9. He must not crib, copy, or use other people's notes.

10. He must live up to all these requirements.

For years, college students have been asked questions about dates. They could not answer them, but Prof. Fitzgibbon seems to have covered the question with this statement: "The principle importance of dates is the connection."

A TRAGEDY

Act I

Scene I

Setting: Any fraternity house in Hanover.

The hero enters and goes to the phone.

"Dorm, please."

"Hello, is Dodo there?"

(After thirty minutes' wait).

"Oh, hello, what are you doing? Studying?"

"Oh, you don't have to study, you'll get a good grade anyway."

"Ya got a date?"

"Ya have. Well, it's the old tough luck again."

(Hangs up, turns away with facial expression that means a lot.)

Curtain.

Act II

Scene I

Setting: Same as Act I.

The villain enters.

"51, please."

"Hello, is Dodo there? May I talk to her please?"

"Hello, Dodo, are you doing anything tonight? Well, that's fine. I'll be down in the Wreck in about thirty minutes. Good bye."

Curtain.

"Are you thinking of Marion Gross?"

"No, we are not engaged yet."

"Funny" Crane must have been a good baby. He said he didn't cry until his first girl turned him down.

Pig championship won by a local boy at club show. Some boy!

The quickest service we know of is, "Hats cleaned and blocked by phone."

A new use of gruesome. A man gruesome whiskers.

Q: If you woke up a foot per minute how long would it take you to awaken?

A.: Two minutes.

The druggist never tries to break up a family. They won't even sell half of a box of Smith Brothers' cough drops.

I toiled and tried to make this good

To get a bit of laughter

I knew it wouldn't be a hit

But, oh the feeling after.

It is a fact from history:

That our presidents didn't run from election.

That King Tut didn't have a radio.

That the pony express rider didn't ride a motorcycle.

That the Pilgrims didn't eat Florida oranges.

That Paul Revere didn't have a Rolls-Royce.

That the War of 1812 was fought in the 19th century.

Where breathes a man with soul so dead
Who never to himself hath said,

"To hell with college, I'm going to bed."

Do you know where a jelly fish gets its jelly?

From the currents in the ocean.

Darby: I can't see my hand before my face.

Jinks: Why not? It's broad daylight.

Darby: My hands are in my pockets.

Harry R.: Are your suits tailor made?

Bob B.: Yes, by the Indianapolis Tent and Awning Co.

"WITH A SMILE"

When thing go wrong and life seems most
Unjust, then try to smile a bit.
This life is short, this life is sweet;
And a smile from you knows no defeat.
'Tis true that friends ofttimes are few,
But you can say, "I will keep fit"

With a smile.

A friend of mine was playing on
The high school team. He played the floor
Position in the game. They played him hard:

They knocked him down; but couldn't mar
This boy of blue because he took
It all, and always came for more

With a smile.

A professor's wife in Hanover
Is plump and sweet as a sugar hump.
She's known as friend to all she meets
From the town's west end to the halls in the east.

Now, you look sour and come her way,
And she'll be sure to kid you 'long

With a smile.

This wife's hubby's Professor Moore.
He teaches students by the score.
When he gives lessons hard (I know)
You'd better prepare them perfect too.
For when he questions, you say, "I Don't know;" he'll bawl you out, and do it
With a smile.

I have a friend named Betty Post.
She loves to kid Doc Ballard most.
She floats his classes 'most all the time,
And thinks in grades, she's doing fine.
One day to city she must go.
So, she broke through Doc with a Hershey bar

And a smile.

And now young man and lady, too,
If you have things you want to do
Which interfere with lessons few;
Or, it falls your lot to come in late
And reprimanding is your fate,
Just hand the prof some chocolate.

With a smile.

HEARD ON THE CAMPUS

She: Oh, Kenny, my neck!
He: What's the matter, Martha.
She: Oh, my neck!
He: It's nothing but a caterpillar.

A GRAD'S PLEA FOR SHE STREET

Must She Street succumb? Is progress and civic advancement compelled to take such toll from heart and memory? Must we has-beens and might-have-beens arise, gird our loins and unite in our strength—may it be sufficient—to arrest the threatened sacrilege?

Thank God that the spirit of development has not molested the Butlers, Chain Mill, Hart's and, save for the woodsman's slaughter, Happy Valley. But is not She Street a name likewise hallowed? Would Old Hanover without She Street still be our Old Hanover? No more than would Crowe Ravine with a dozen railroad tracks be the beloved Crowe Ravine down which we often trapped.

Where was it, with only minutes until "Papa Keewis" would ring the good-night bell, that we detoured for a last word alone?

She Street!

By what route did we start for countless joyful excursions to Happy Valley, and by what route return, trudging wearily, but gloriously contented?

She Street!

Where did we, poor Freshman Greeks, pick daisies along the walk at the encouragement of a heartless Sophomore's "Now pick that big one there; snap into it, Freshie, and pick it up," and at the discouragement of a swishing, heavy, oak paddle. And where, later, as heartless Sophomores, we pointed out daisies for luckless Freshmen to pluck?

She Street!

And where were confidences and promises whispered and accepted? Where did kindly foliage give protection from a too bright and too inquisitive moon and from too searching and too inquisitive eyes? Or, was it rain instead of moon, where did we seek trees to delay, if not prevent, the really unminded drenching? Where, after night study hours at the house, did we stroll with our brothers before turning in, singing "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi," "Tell Me Why She Wears His Pin," "Beta Rose," and "Smoke Dreams." Or "Georgia Moon," "Good Night, Star Light," and "Memories?"

She Street!

And now they tell us that the days of She Street may be few. Progress, or civic pride, or something, demands a new name—possibly something more dignified. The euphonious, convenient, time-honored, beloved She Street, associated with Hanover legendry farther back than most of us remember, lacks dignity. And so, we learn, it may become Maple Street. Or perhaps Prospect Avenue. Heaven forbid!

Not a great stretch of memory takes us back to a time when only a footpath paralleled She Street and at night the moon and stars gave the only light. Then came sidewalks and, later, lights, but these, though modern, were improvements and we protested not the invasion of concrete and electricity. Then too, we delighted to see new houses—homes, not mansions—arise to join the Britan's, the Prof. Cnubby's and the Whittam's.

But now they would take from us our She Street and we must sound a call to arms against this encroachment of progress. There shall be no molesting the dignity of a name so dear to us. Maple Street? Prospect Avenue? Ugh!

Let the battle cry be, "She Street Forever!"
